Dr.C.W. Scott, a specialist of this city, who relates that early last winter a gentleman introduced himself as Mr. Walkum, an alderman of Emporia, Kansas, called upon him for advice, saying that he had suffered for some time from a chronic disease and had been treating himself for it, using arsenic, both in solution and pills. The visitor appeared somewhat under the influence of liquor, and after receiving some advice from the doctor took his leave, and the latter has not seen him since. He says, however, that he was visited yesterday by Mrs. Walkup's photograph among a dozen others. This testi mony will probably be used by the defence in the trial of Mrs. Walkup, who stands charged with the murder of her husband.

TRAIN ROBBERY.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., September 2 .- A bold train robbery occurred on the Chicago and Alton Railroad to-night, but, owing to the sudden fright of the robbers, but little booty was secured. As the west-bound train, on the way to the city, left Blue Springs, twenty-two miles from here, about nine o'clock to night, four masked men appeared at the smoking-car and were about to board it. A number of men, however, were standing on the platform, and the robbers passed to the next car in lins, the day coach. Three of them climbed upon the fourth got on at the rear. A man then mounted guard at each end of the car, while the other two entered, and, with drawn revolvers, commanded the passengers to give up their money. A number of them handed out small amounts of change, while one man in his excitement passed out his purse containing about $28. The robbers took whatever was offered without searching the passengers, and made no attempt to rob them of their jewelry. When the pair had reached the middle of the car they became suddenly alarmed, and, pulling the bell-rope, the four robbers sprang off when the train slackened speed, and disappeared in the darkness. The train passed on, and the conductor, James Bogge, reported the affair to the officials of the road from the next telegraph station. The train then proceeded on its way to this city. The passengers on the other cffix knew nothing of the matter until all was over. Then there was great excitement among the timid, and many hastened to secrete their valuables and prepare for a return of the robbers, even though all danger had passed. The passengers of the car that were robbed had scarcely time to realize what had occurred before the robbers disappeared.

A Singular and Fatal Disease.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., September 2.— great deal of excitement prevails on Syca more Creek, Clay County, this State, over a malignant form of disease which can no be explained by local physicians. My in formant says every bour brings news of another death. The maindy was though to be flux, but is a more fatal disorder, with symptoms similar to cholera. In the family of Esquire Sizemore four sons died withins few hours of each other. Others of the family are sick with the disease. The disease is mostly confined to children, who die in a very short time, paralyzed with pain. The Sycamore Creek region, where the disease prevails, is sparsely populated with a hardy class of mountaineers. The air and water are pure. The disease is of the nature of that which prevailed in Southwest West Virginia and the adjoining part of Kentucky last year. nore Creek, Clay County, this State, over

Harrisburg, Pa., September 2.—John E. Ricker, a Dauphin County farmer, was recently relieved of $1,000. Two men—wh registered their names as D. D. Forster, o registered their names as D. D. Forster, of Boston, and D. F. Davis, of Philadelphia—informed Richer of a desire to graze sheep on his farm. While negotiating with him they told him they had a scheme by which he might make $2,000 out of an investment of $1,000. The unsuspecting farmer came to this city in company with one of the men and took $1,000 out of bank. At a secluded spot the other man joined them, and in a few moments Forster and Davis compelled Ricker at the point of a revolver to deliver his money to them. They made their escape burriedly, and now $100 is offered for their arrest.

A Plague of Flies.

The village of Emsworth, England, has been visited by a remarkable plague of flies, which simultaneously covered an area of one mile. At some places it was impossible to move without closing the eves and mouth. Around every lamp in town the spectacle was most curious. Attracted by the light, thick swarms abounded, and their buzz re-sembled that of a hive of bees. At the post-office, where the upper portion of the door is open for ventilation, and where necessarily the light is kept burning till the early morning, the insects covered the sorting boards, letters and bags, and had to be continually swept off with brushes. At one lamp they simply hung down in clusters. In the window of the office they were to be seen in thick bunches. Bicyclists were in several instances compelled to alight, so thick was the swarm; and at the auction mart, at the bottom of the town, the tray in which the money was taken was covered an inch thick.— Manchester
